

At the start...get together as a team, learn each others names and plan to stick together!

1) Drenched Goose - Each team sits in a circle on the ground. One person is chosen to be it. This is like the game Duck Duck Goose, the person who is "it" goes around the circle tapping each person on the head and saying "Duck", the person who he calls "goose", gets the cupful of water on their head. That goose is then "it".

2) Muddy Farmer - Each team must have equal number of players. Race to see which team can finish first. Each player should: get into the muddy clothes, boots and hat; run to the cone and back and then get out of the muddy clothes so the next player can go.

3) Condiment Twister - Each team has a twister mat (you can also split your team in half and each half play a game) Twister game should be loaded with gooey stuff. You spin the spinner and call out what the kids should do. (You can also ad-lib if you want!) If a player falls, they are out. Last team with a player standing wins! Please reload the twister mats before you move on to the next station.

4) Dirty Dodge Ball - This is just like regular dodge ball, just using water soaked balls. If a player gets hit with a ball, they are out. You can be the referee for this.

5) Volleyball a la Mud - Each team takes a side of the volleyball court. Play volleyball with a large exercise ball covered in chocolate "mud". You can add extra hits per side (such as six hits per side) or whatever you want to make the game more fun. Recover the ball with chocolate before you move on. :)

6) Slippery Slope - Each team races to see who can pick up their 20 letters first. Each player runs onto the slippery slope, picks up one letter and puts it in the bucket. Then the next player goes and so on until they have their 20 letters in the bucket. Once the slippery slope is cleared of all alphabet letters, the players can have fun slipping and sliding on the tarp. Please reload the tarp with soap, water and objects before you move on.

7) Mud Feed - Have your team get into partners of two. One will be a feeder, one will be the eater. The one who will be feeding the other gets blindfolded. Get your 4-5 cups of pudding and bottle of whipped cream ready. Wait for the other team to be ready because you will be competing against them. Make sure you have equal numbers of players. Tell them what they will be doing... (the blindfolded feeder and the eater run out together to the chair, feeder feeds the eater all the pudding, sprays some whipped cream into their mouth and then runs back, puts the blindfold on the next feeder and they repeat the same thing) First team back wins the prize of a gummy worm...2nd place gets a sour one. Use only 1 bottle of cream per team.

8) Bridge of Burgundy - Jathan and Josh direct the teams to play over and in the MUD PIT!
